

WHAT'S DIFFERENT ABOUT OUR STRATEGY?

RESEARCH

- Our equity research begins with our knowledge of corporate debt and free cash flow.
- We use our knowledge and understanding of the corporate debt market, acquired in managing Aquila Three Peaks High Income Fund, to decipher the equity investment landscape.
- We evaluate what management teams are doing with free cash flow – activities might include stock buyback, dividend payments, acquisitions and expanding production or developing new products.
- We focus on understanding bond covenants and credit metrics, which we believe provide a very distinct advantage to our research for stock selection.

SECTOR SELECTION

- We focus on sectors we consider to be relatively stable, and where we believe there is greater predictability of revenues and stability in cash flow.
- We are cautious of highly-leveraged companies and highly-cyclical industries, where we believe the return potential is not significant enough to compensate for the elevated risk of financial distress when the economy slows.

INVESTMENT SELECTION

- We search for companies with fiscally responsible management teams:
 - Teams who have been prudent with their use of debt and leverage to grow operations and free cash flow.
 - Teams that recognize they can improve their balance sheet, credit profile and future equity valuations by focusing on credit-specific measures.

DISTINCTIVE STRATEGY

- We believe that companies that are utilizing free cash flow, and paying down debt, are laying the groundwork for potentially strong equity returns.
- We utilize not only our detailed understanding of balance sheet improvements and covenants, but also yield and spread data, to seek good entry points for stocks.
- Our strategy is to maintain a broadly diversified, well researched, well balanced portfolio to reduce volatility.
